

Dr. Sáez Puche received his Ph.D. from University Complutense of Madrid in 1979. Associate Professor of Inorganic Chemistry (1985-99) and Full Professor (1999-until now). Postdoctoral Fullbright Researcher at Arizona State University (USA) 1979-80. Visiting Professor in the Department of Chemistry in University of Berkeley (2002), CNRS-Paris 2000, Poznan University (Poland), Ecole Supérieure de Chimie (Strasbourg), Universidad Nacional de La Plata (Argentina), Brunel University (UK). President of the Spanish Solid State Chemistry Group of Spanish Royal Society of Chemistry (2009-2017). Member of the Board of the European Solid State Chemistry Group. Chairman of the ICFE-3 and member of the Organising Committees of the different ICFE's and ICRE's. Member of the Board of College 5B at the ILL in Grenoble (2009-15). Since 1980 is author of more than 300 publications, over 100 oral presentations as plenary, keynote and invited in different international conferences. Supervisor of 12 Doctoral Thesis, and Group Leader of the Solid State Chemistry at the University Complutense of Madrid (2016- continue)